

ABSTRACT

Subject matter includes an exemplary pane element for use in a web page document to generate a pane consisting of a division of a computer display screen. When a web browser encounters the exemplary pane element, the browser is directed to pane-generating instructions, which are substituted as markup language for the exemplary pane element. The pane-generating instructions may be an element behavior bound to an exemplary pane element.